

IDENTIFYING PRONOUN & CLAUSE

Circle the relative pronoun and bracket the dependent clause the pronoun introduces. As soon as you finish the exercise, raise your hand, so your teacher can select you to display your answers to the rest of the class.

Example: I am attending a new school today (which is known for its basketball prowess).

1. Yesterday, I met my new coach who played professional basketball.
2. He played with a team that won the championship three years in a row.
3. This team had a player who is considered the best player ever.
4. My coach, whom I met yesterday, didn't start.
5. However, he was known for shooting three-pointers which helped his team win many games.
6. Everyday, my coach wears his championship rings that are very cool.
7. My coach, whose favorite mascot is a bull, knows a great deal about the sport.
8. His coach in the pros coached another team that won championships.
9. The city, in which he played, is sometimes called "the windy city."
10. Can you guess the name of the team for whom he played?

